HOUSE FAILS TO PASS RESOLUTION ON LOBBY PROBE

Clause Calling for Employment of Counsel Proves a Stumbling Block.

MATTER THEN GOES OVER

Will Be Taken Up Again Wednesday, When Mr. Henry Will Attempt to Force Record Vote.

By JOSEPH P. ANNIN.

Like a nervous horse approaching a threshing machine, the House yesterday waded up to a plan to investigate itself, ordered the resolution calling for such action emasculated of one of its vitally important features, and then shied away and left the question open when Minority Leader Mann forced an adjournment on a point of no quorum.

True to schedule, the Rules Committee reported out a measure calling for a sweeping investigation of the National Manufacturers' Association lobby, and other lobbies. As expected, the resolution authorized a committee of seven, to be appointed by the Speaker, and the employment of counsel to assist it in getting at the bottom of lobbies and lobbyists. True to schedule, also, members of the House adopted an attitude of apparent enthusiasm over the resolution. Several amendments, apparently seeking to insure more fully thorough and honest investigation, were adopted without opposition.

No one appeared, apparently, to champion the integrity of the House membership and the honor and dignity of the greatest legislative body except Representative Levy, who declared that he did not think the House should show such a lack of faith in itself as to take cognizance of the Midhall charges. But the opportunity was yet to come, and when it came, on the reading of text to the last paragraph of the bill, Mr. Levy saw his chance, and a majority of the members present showed their hands. This was the paragraph authorizing the employment of special counsel. Levy moved to strike out the authorization and the motion carried by 36 to 22.

Representative Phil Campbell of Kansas, stand-pat Republican, a member of the Rules Committee, and a close ally of the Levy amendment, repudiating the resolution to which he had subscribed.

Wanted Time Limit.

Thus encouraged, Representative Small of North Carolina, who had voted and spoken for the Levy amendment, sought to amend the bill to expire September 1 set on the committee. This was voted down. Then, while Representative Cooper was offering an amendment to strengthen the resolution, Minority Leader Mann, who had a train to catch or some other matter of personal convenience, forced an adjournment at 2:45 p. m. by making the point of no quorum.

MILITANTS SET FIRE TO CHURCH AND HALL

Arson Squads Do Damage in a Day Amounting to $75,000—Burn Chapel and Rob Safe.

Bolton, England, July 5.—Suffragettes almost succeeded in destroying Spinnaker Hall, recently completed at a cost of $100,000. From the action the movement frustrated their plans. The damage is estimated at $25,000.

The women also burned the Tabernacle Baptist Church. They broke into the parsonage, robbed the safe, destroyed the contents of the place, and escaped. The pastor was absent. Neighbors furnished the police with a description of the incendiaries. One of them was said to be about fifteen years old.

Church Burned in Wales.

Cardiff, Wales, July 5.—Fifty thousand dollars' damage was done by militant suffragettes today at Pwllheli, in Carnarvonshire, where it is said, members of the "arson squad" burned the Welsh Methodist chapel.

WARRANT IS ISSUED FOR SYLVIA PANKHURST

London, July 5.—A warrant was issued at Bow Street Police Station today for the arrest of Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, daughter of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the president of the Women's Social and Political Union.

Miss Pankhurst has been a leader of the militant suffragettes ever since she was seventeen years old. She has served several terms in jail, and on one occasion during a speech vowed that she would never marry until women got the vote. She is a sister of Christabel Pankhurst.

The warrant charges Miss Pankhurst with inciting others to riot.

STRIKE DEPENDS ON OUTCOME OF MEETING

Conductors and Trainmen to Discuss Situation with Railway Managers in New York Tuesday.

New York, July 5.—On the outcome of a meeting next Tuesday between members of the Order of Railroad Conductors and Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen with members of the railroad managers' committee will depend whether their leaders will direct 100,000 trainmen to strike in accordance with the sentiment of the vast majority of them, as expressed by balloting.

The trainmen want increases in wages averaging 15 per cent. Their demands were presented in April, but the railroads refused them.

The conductors and trainmen have offered to arbitrate under the Erdman act, a law which both sides admit is defective, and have united in asking Congress to change it.

The leaders of the trainmen, however, expect to force the railroads to arbitrate under the act by threatening to tie up all of the railroads in the Eastern part of the country.

ENTIRE TOWN GREETED WILSON

Natives Turn Out in Force to Welcome President to Summer Capital.

FAMILY AT THE STATION

Executive Kisses Mrs. Wilson and Daughters and Then Waves Hat at Crowd.

Winchester, Va., July 5.—President Wilson arrived here at 10:20 a. m. today to spend a brief vacation. He was met by Mrs. Wilson and two of his daughters, and the party motored to the summer White House at Cornish, N. H., three miles away.

The President's train reached the "summer capital" fifteen minutes behind time and practically the entire population of Winchester was on hand to greet the Chief Executive. Mrs. Wilson and two of the Wilsons were waiting for the President in one of the White House cars imported for the occasion. His face beamed with smiles, the President went directly to the station and kissed his wife and daughters before returning to his quarters.

In anticipation of cooler weather in Vermont the President had doffed his linen suit, which he wore at Gettysburg yesterday, and had returned to a light-weight sweater. He was somewhat surprised to find the thermometer almost as high here as it was when he left Washington.

Have Newspaper Men.

"Guys I'll have to change back to the linen," the Chief Executive murmured to "Jimmy" Sloan, chief secret service operative, as he drove off from the station.

The temperature was close to 90 and the humidity quite high. Upon arriving at the summer White House the President gave orders that no newspaper correspondents or photographers were to be admitted on any pretext. The President said that he was in Cornish to take a rest, and that he would transact no official business, nor even consider matters which would tend to disturb his brief vacation. He said that he would return to Washington, but he would not discuss it here. A squad of six secret service men is on hand to see that the President's orders are carried out to the letter.

According to present plans, the President will remain here until Tuesday afternoon. But he may stay longer if developments in Washington are not of such a nature as to necessitate his presence.

PRESIDENT'S TRAIN RUNS DOWN MAN

Bridgeport, July 5.—The express train to which the private car of President Wilson was attached, carrying him from New York City to Cornish, N. H., struck and killed a man who attempted to cross tracks near the station here early today.

It was said that the President was asleep when his train passed through here. The accident caused only a short delay.

"Next" in Barber Shop Is a Woman, Who Gets Massaged

A pretty woman in a dainty frock and a fetching hat asking for a massage in a King Street barber shop in Alexandria last night put the famous chivalry of Virginia to the acid test. The chivalry stood the test.

"With a massage," the woman said, "I was massaged in demurely, the dozen stubbly bearded, straggly haired men awaiting their usual Saturday night renovation arose in admiration. When she put back her veil and said to the first chair, 'With a massage,' the weary waiters were torn by conflicting emotion. Ladies first, of course, noblesse oblige. Dieu et le malin—but, gosh—they'd been waiting slightly long. They bowed acquiescence to wait longer, though.

As for the barber, he gave one gasp, waved the lady customer into the chair, "tilted" her as if for a shave, and then he bowed her out. When the massage was done he found an Alexandrian crowd of twenty-eight persons staring at the appointed spectacle. But as the barber said she "just adjusted her hair and other garments and left."

It was said in Alexandria that she was a Washington woman.

MOTHER ILL; GIRL KILLS SELF

Found in Hospital Room with Gas Turned On.

New Haven, Conn., July 5.—Edith Bristol-Stone, aged twenty-eight, of Philadelphia, was found dead in her room at the Elm City Private Hospital today with the gas turned on. The girl came here yesterday in response to a summons from the hospital authorities who informed her that her mother was seriously ill at the hospital. After seeing her mother she retired last night and she was not again seen alive.

PAROLE IS NEAR FOR HAWTHORNE

Reported That Author Now in Penitentiary Will Receive Clemency.

ACTION ON CASE JULY 24.

Friends of Writer Convicted of Frauds in Stock Transactions Seem Sanguine.

Julian Hawthorne, the author, will be paroled from the Federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., where he is serving a sentence of a year and a day for using the mails to sell fraudulent mining stock, according to reports last night.

The parole board has held a hearing on the petition to parole Hawthorne, but it cannot be acted on until July 24.

It was reported last night that the report made by the board will favor the parole of the prisoner, provided he is willing to conform to certain restrictions to be placed upon his actions by the warden. The report inclines to the belief that Hawthorne knew he was committing a fraud when he wrote glowing articles concerning the mining properties of his friends.

Hawthorne's friends take strong exception to this and declare that the writer was merely a tool in the hands of persons who were heavily interested in the sale of the Canadian mining stock. Following the announcement of the finding of the parole board an attempt will be made to secure a pardon for Hawthorne, according to several of his friends. No action looking toward a pardon will be acted on until after the action by the board on July 24.

Hawthorne's friends are asking for his parole on the ground that the ends of justice have already been served in the humiliation and punishment already suffered by Hawthorne.

DEATH AND DAMAGE BY STORM

High Winds and Heavy Rain Sweep New York.

New York, July 5.—One man was killed, two were fatally hurt, many buildings were struck by lightning, street cars were put out of commission, streets were flooded, and thousands of dollars' damage was done in a storm which broke with intense severity over greater New York this afternoon.

A heavy rainfall, with high winds, was accompanied by lightning and thunder. In Greenwald County, Charles Henry, while standing under a tree with two other persons, was instantly killed. The other two men were knocked unconscious with the bolt of lightning that killed Henry.

At Coney Island the storm was especially severe and thousands were caught in it before they could reach shelter.

Shoemaker Spy Sentenced.

Leipzig, Germany, July 5.—A Polish shoemaker named Leoniowski, recently convicted of selling German military plans to Russia, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment today. Leoniowski told the court that a woman was involved, but he refused to give her name. She is said to be a titled member of an old German family.

AERONAUT, IN WILD BALLOON, FIGHTS FOR LIFE

Thousands Watch Youth in Rudderless Airship, Which Goes as Wind Will.

NIGHT CLOAKS SCENE

Ascent Is Made by Accident, and Man May Be Carried Out to Sea or Dropped on Land.

New York, July 5.—Flying before the wind in a rudderless dirigible airship two thousand feet above the earth across the Hudson, across the city and out on the Sound, his only footing the thin frame rods beneath the giant bag, his only hope the mercy of the elements, a young aviator rode into the darkness and was lost tonight.

He is George M. Gay, of Palisades Park—a mere boy of twenty-one, but an experienced aviator and a hero of forty during flights. But he is facing a peril that no aviator ever faced before, and whether the morning will find him safe on land or dead in the water; whether his unaided craft will carry him inland again or out to the open sea, is the unanswerable question.

Tens of thousands saw the wild flight from the park, from Harlem, from the Bronx, City Island, Harts Island, and Fort Washington, but only the few who had witnessed his unintended start knew that the man 2,000 feet in the air, springing from end to end of the framework, now working the bag almost end up, now letting it blunt nose cut the air in spasmodic flights, was fighting for his life. They marvelled at his courage, at his wonderful coolness, but they thought it was only a show.

The ascent was an accident. They

ELLEN TERRY NOT SEPARATED, SAYS DAUGHTER

Report of Break Silly, Says Child of the Noted English Actress.

London, July 5.—Mrs. Edith Terry Craig, daughter of Ellen Terry, tonight denied the report, published in New York today, that her mother had separated from her husband, James Craig.

"That is a silly report," said Mrs. Craig. "My mother has already emphatically denied it, but as she is away in the country I will merely add that it is not so. I will say nothing for myself, as there is nothing for me to say."

Woman Shoots Chauffeur and Self.

Boston, July 5.—Mrs. Alice B. Frost, thirty-nine years old, of West Somerville, shot and probably fatally wounded herself late this afternoon after she had fired a bullet into the chest of Arthur T. Holt, single, and employed as a chauffeur in Somerville. Holt was only slightly injured.

VETERANS LEAVE OLD BATTLEFIELD

Last Day of Reunion Witnesses Departure of Thousands for Their Homes.

Some Old Soldiers Miss Trains and Others Decide to Spend Sunday at Gettysburg.

Gettysburg, Pa., July 5.—Although this was the last day of the blue and gray reunion and veterans have been departing for their homes since early morning, there were still many of the 50,000 old soldiers in town tonight. Some of them missed their trains in the confusion; others were delayed because of the congestion of traffic, while still others decided to spend Sunday on the historic battlefield.

The regular army men will remain after the last veteran has departed, to put the camp in shape. It is thought that two months will elapse before the ground on which the camp was pitched will have been restored to its original condition; fences rebuilt and roads made over.

This was the busiest day of the week and there were numerous protestations from the heat. One Confederate veteran, H. H. Hodges, of Union Hill, N. C., succumbed, falling dead in the crowd at the railroad station. A committee of veterans departed for Washington today with a view of securing the introduction in Congress of a bill providing for the erection of a peace monument on the Gettysburg battlefield and the appropriation of $100,000 for that purpose.

Praise for Army.

In appreciation of the eminently successful manner in which the United States army cared for the old veterans, Gov. Tener, on behalf of the State of Pennsylvania, tonight presented gold and silver medals to the officers in charge of the different branches of work. The presentation was made by Col. Bettler, secretary of the Pennsylvania Gettysburg celebration commission.

The principal credit was given to Maj. J. E. Normoyle, quartermaster's corps at Washington, who was in charge of the preparation and handling of the camp. Other Washington officers receiving medals were Brig. Gen. Hunter Liggett, president of the Army War College, and Capt. H. F. Dalton, quartermaster's corps.

Maj. Normoyle, in accepting his medal, said he accepted it as a tribute to the whole army and to the organization and team work. "This camp was for the veterans of Gettysburg," said he, "and he was king." This is perhaps the first time that the army has remained behind the scenes and given those in blanchette charge cart, with no restrictions or discipline whatever. The event was followed by a dance given on Little Round Top by the army officers.

Robber Shot by Police.

Atlanta, Ga., July 5.—Caught attempting to blow the safe in the postoffice at Kirkwood, a suburb, today, J. W. Johnson, who said his home was in Philadelphia, Pa., was shot and fatally wounded by policemen. A party of officers surprised Johnson as he was shaking a section attempt to force the safe and opened fire on him.

GIRL NEAR DEATH FROM ATTACK OF GANGSTERS

New York Thugs Waylay German Domestic as She Walks in Central Park.

New York, July 5.—Killed Dieck, a young German girl, employed as a maid in the household of Dr. Pirrus Renn, of 125 East Ninety-second Street, is in J. Hood Wright Hospital today and perhaps will die as the result of an attack by a band of ruffians who infest Central Park.

The girl went out to walk alone. She was found unconscious, her clothing torn and bloodstained, her nose badly cut, on one of the park hillside near Harlem Lake, into which she had narrowly escaped falling.

The attack on the girl is like several that have been perpetrated recently by a gang, which is supposed to come from the upper East side and for whom the police have been looking for some time.

The girl came from Germany recently. She spoke relatively little English and had a few friends living in Astoria. She had been working for the Renns for two weeks.

GREEK FORCES ROUT BULGARS

Take Kilkish at Point of Bayonet and Pursue Retreating Bulgarians.

TOWN IS NOW IN ASHES

Official Dispatch Graphically Describes Engagement, in Which Czar Ferdinand's Troops Met Defeat.

New York, July 5.—A graphic official story of the battle between the Bulgarians and Greeks at Kilkish, twenty-five miles to the north of Saloniki, was received by the Greek daily newspaper Attika today direct from Saloniki. It says:

"The battle between the Bulgarians and Greeks at Kilkish ended at 10 o'clock in the morning of July 4, in a complete defeat of the Bulgarians after a severe bombardment of the town by the Greeks, who carried the place at the point of the bayonet."

The town was then occupied by a part of the Hellenic troops, while their comrades continued the pursuit of the Bulgarians, who had fled in disorder, leaving many of their field guns and machine guns in the hands of the Greek victors. More than sixty cannons were captured. "Kilkish was almost completely destroyed by fire before the Bulgarians fled. The battle in front of Kilkish was more important than any of those fought by the allies in the campaign between Turkey and the Balkan states. The Bulgarians, who were much superior in numbers, had surrounded the town with their machine guns and trenches nearly six feet in depth and very narrow, so that their occupants were sheltered from the splinters of shells."

Field Artillery Useless.

"Firing started at 8 o'clock in the morning. The Bulgarians had stationed their heavy artillery on the heights, from which they fired with great precision, the distance having been marked before the opening of hostilities. The guns first

COOKS MEAT IN SAME PAN FIFTY YEARS AFTER

J. W. F. Williams, of Washington, Observes Gettysburg Reunion in Unique Manner.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Gettysburg, Pa., July 5.—An interesting story gained wide circulation among the veterans today to the effect that J. W. F. Williams, of Washington, D. C., a member of the Fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, had at 10 o'clock last Wednesday night prepared for a group of food comrades some meat in a frying pan that fifty years previous at the same hour and the same spot had been utilized for the same purpose in the darkness and stillness that preceded the great conflict of arms.

Williams preserved carefully that precious pan, and Wednesday night, with a dozen comrades gathering around, he built another small fire and cooked another scanty meal of meat with the inevitable hard tack on the side.

Mr. Williams is an employee of the Treasury Department. He will return to Washington on Monday.

W. B. WILSON, CABINET MEMBER, ADMITS ARREST

Secretary of Labor, on Charge of Unlawful Assembly, Spent Night in Jail.

OLD STRIKE IS RECALLED

Honesty and Integrity Not Involved, Says Official in Discussing the Case.

With the ready assertion that he was proud of every act of the past, Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, last night, at the Driscoll Hotel, admitted the truth of a story coming from New York to the effect that he had been haled before the courts on several occasions and once had been confined overnight in a jail.

"There is absolutely nothing in the court proceedings in which I figured that I am not extremely proud of," said Secretary Wilson, when informed of the story.

"There is positively nothing in the entire history of the court cases that reflects upon my honesty and integrity or that would cause me to bow my head in shame. I am proud of everything that I then did."

"In April, 1904, the regular annual convention of the United Mine Workers of America met at Columbus, Ohio. At that time I was employed as a coal miner for the Blossberg Coal Company, at their mines at Lanesville, Pa. I was sent as a delegate from the local union to attend the convention. I was elected a member of the board. The convention passed a resolution to call a strike to begin April 1. The threatened Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, and parts of Illinois, West Virginia, and Maryland came out on strike."

"At the time the convention was held the miners of the Georges Creek and the Maryland coal field was not organized. I was sent direct from the convention into the Georges Creek district for the purpose of bringing them into the general strike movement."

At Cumberland Strike.

"On April 11, 1904, I made my appearance on the scene of the strike in Cumberland, Md., and found the miners totally unorganized. I at once began the work of organization, but was hindered at every step by the underhand dealings of the coal operators. During the entire time my life was in constant danger. All the schemes ever unfolded within the paper backs of a dime novel were put into effect in an effort to check my moves. There was one well-organized conspiracy to kidnap me and lock me up in a deserted shack many miles distant, but the plans were frustrated. Later I found the very handiwork that were to have been used in kidnapping me."

"It is true that I was arrested charged with conspiracy. The facts are these: On May 28, 1904, the courts of Allegany County, Maryland, issued a restraining order enjoining myself and others from doing these things which are usually included in the injunctive part of a restraining order. On the 22d day of May a copy of the injunction was served on me; on the 24th I was cited to appear and show cause why I should not be held in contempt, and on the 26th at 2:30 p. m. I was tried for contempt before Judge Hoffman and Judge Boyd."

"Over the protest of my lawyers, the court let down the bars, accepting evidence of my action prior to the issuance of the injunction of the court and after the citation for contempt. Notwithstanding this fact, I was acquitted of contempt."

"Immediately following that a charge was made that I was conspiring with the coal miners of the Georges Creek coal region to stop the mines of the coal company. I was standing at the station in Lanesville, Md., waiting for a train coming from Frostburg on which I expected a messenger. When the train pulled in, Sheriff King stepped off and invited me into the station to see the mine talk. As the train always stops a few minutes at Lanesville, I complied. When we got on the train he said he had a warrant against me for conspiracy. I asked him to read it, which he did. By that time the train was in motion, and I was taken to Piedmont, Md., and from there to Cumberland, Md."
